

Parable of the Jeeper

The Kingdom of Heaven is like a jeeper who, with his jeep, wanted to follow the Master Jeeper on a most difficult trail, filled with challenging obstacles. For most of the trail the jeeper followed along without problems, but when he came to an obstacle he would attempted to climb it on his own. If he followed the line of the Master Jeeper, he often had great success, but when he strayed from the Master Jeeper's line, there was much danger and reason to fear. On these fearful occasions the Master Jeeper would send other experienced jeepers to try and show the Jeeper the line and on many occasions these experienced jeepers could guide the jeeper to the top of the obstacle and the glory there.

But on some occasions even the experienced jeepers could not guide the jeeper up the obstacle. At those times all the jeeper had to do was call upon the Master Jeeper and he would send down his saving winch line to rescue the jeeper from the hazardous obstacle in his path.
